Cultural Insights

Culture, Traditions, and Customs

Dubai, United Arab Emirates

Family Values

Family is the cornerstone of Emirati society, and strong family ties are highly valued. Family gatherings are common, especially during religious holidays and special occasions. Respect for elders is paramount, and children are taught to honor and obey their parents.

Traditional Dress

Traditional clothing reflects Emirati heritage and identity. Emirati men typically wear a white ankle-length garment called a kandura, while women wear a black robe called an abaya. These garments are worn as a symbol of modesty and cultural pride.

Hospitality

Hospitality is deeply ingrained in Emirati culture, reflecting warmth, generosity, and respect for guests. Emiratis are known for their welcoming nature and willingness to accommodate guests with food, drinks, and comfortable surroundings. Visitors are often greeted with Arabic coffee and dates, symbols of hospitality.

Islamic Culture

Respect for Islamic customs is essential. Visitors should dress modestly, particularly when visiting religious sites. Public displays of affection should be minimal, and alcohol consumption is limited to licensed venues.

Apple Air Tags

One of the best ways to keep track of your luggage, or any personal item, during travel is by placing a tracking device inside.

If you own an iPhone, there's no better tracking device than an AirTag. It allows you to easily pinpoint the exact location of your lost item. For non-iPhone users, there is Tile, another great option for bluetooth trackers.

How to Find Cheap Airfare

Who likes to fly cheap? 🙋 I know I do. To find great prices among many airlines, from premium to budget, I use the following airfare aggregators: Skyscanner, Hopper, and Momondo.

These show you offers in budget airlines you won't normally find in Google Flights and major OTAs (Online Travel Agencies).

The best feature is selecting the "Everywhere" option when you don't know where you want to go but want to find the cheapest price. Give it a try and let me know how it goes!
